CALL TO ACTION

THE IMPORTANCE OF ENGAGING CHILDREN AS STAKEHOLDERS

- Companies need to consult with children and youth, particularly those affected by child labor, when designing solutions.
- Children can provide valuable input on how policies or business practices impact their lives, families, and communities.
- prioritize actions that have proven effect, i.e. living wages, decent work, access to quality education and childcare services.

CHILD LABOR AND EDUCATION

- Companies can support educational programs in the regions they operate, either directly or through partnerships.
- We need to think of the long-term societal and economic benefits of investing in children's education rather than relying on them as cheap labor.

TRUST

- We need to support youth-driven campaigns in raising awareness and pressuring companies to address child labor.
- Companies that listen to youth voices can be seen as leaders in corporate social responsibility, benefiting both their brand and society.
